Privacy Policy

Introduction

This privacy policy ("policy") explains how we process your personal data ("your data"), incl. what we use it for and how we store and protect it.

Why? Because we care about your privacy.

Who are we?

We are the company responsible for the processing of your data in accordance with this policy. Here's our information:

To make the policy more user friendly, we use "we", "us", "our" etc. to describe our company.

When we talk about our "website" we mean URL, and the other sites and apps we own and operate.

When we refer to "you" we mean you as a user of our website, app or customer of our online services or products.

Links to other websites etc.

On our website, in our emails and on our social-media profiles, we may have links to other companies, apps or websites ("other websites") that aren't ours. This policy doesn't cover how those other websites process your data. We encourage you to read the privacy notices on the other websites you visit.

Why, what and for long we process your data

We process your data for these purposes:

Purpose #1:

To follow up leads, create quotes and produce invoices.

We process the following ordinary data about you:

Name

Email

Address

Phone number

We do not process sensitive data.

We process your data on the following legal bases:

UK GDPR and the DPA 2018

Additional information

If you would like more information about our legal basis for processing your data, feel free to contact us. Some of the grounds for processing your data overlap, so there may be several reasons which justify us processing your data.

We do not sell or rent your data to marketers or third parties.

We may use your data in other ways than described here but we'll inform you about these purposes when we collect your data.

Please note that special circumstances or legal requirements may mean that such periods may be shorter or longer, depending on the purpose of complying with legal requirements for the erasure or keeping of information.

Keeping your data safe

We use reasonable organisational, technical and administrative measures to protect your data within our company.

The Internet is not a 100% secure environment and that means we cannot guarantee the security of the data you transmit to us. Emails sent via the Internet might not be encrypted, so we advise you not to include any confidential or sensitive information in your emails to us.

To learn more about our current practices and policies regarding security,

Third parties and processors

We do not use companies (processors) to help us deliver our services to you.

Transfer to countries outside the EU/EEA

We will not transfer your data to countries outside the EU/EEA:

Your rights

You have the following rights:

1. Your right of access and rectification - You have the right to ask us for copies of your personal data or ask us to rectify information you think is inaccurate. There are some exemptions, which means you may not always receive all the information we process but as a main rule you can always contact us and ask for your information.
2. Your right to erasure - You can ask us to erase your information in certain circumstances.
3. You also have the right to have the processing of your data restricted.
4. Your right to withdraw your consent: If processing of your data is based on your consent, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. Your withdrawal will not affect the lawfulness of the processing carried out before you withdrew your consent. You may withdraw your consent by emailing us directly.
5. Your right to restriction of processing and object to processing - You have the right to ask us to restrict the processing of your information and a similar right to object to processing.
6. Your right to data portability: You have the right to receive your data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format (data portability).
7. Where your data is processed for direct marketing purposes, you have the right to object at any time to the processing of personal data about you for such marketing.

The law gives us one month to respond to you, but we will try to respond sooner.

There may be conditions or limitations on these rights. It is therefore not certain e.g. you have the right of data portability in a specific case - this depends on the specific circumstances of the processing activity. You are always welcome to contact us and ask. The same goes for some of the other rights.

Complaints

You can always lodge a complaint with a data protection authority, for example ICO.

Assistance and additional information

You can take steps to exercise your rights by using the contact details above.

If you have questions about the policy, feel free to contact us by using the contact details in this policy.

Children and Our Services

Our services and website are not directed to children, and you may not use our services if you're under the age of 18. You must also be old enough to consent to the processing of your information in your country.

Changes to this policy

Sometimes we need to make changes to this policy to reflect our current practices. We will take reasonable steps to let you know about changes via our website.

If you are a registered user, we will notify you via email if significant changes are being made to the policy using the email address you gave us when you signed up.

If you continue to use our website or services after the notification, we will regard this as your acceptance of our privacy practices.
